Rezumat

I am an automation engineer engaged in work life as well as in offshore projects. Always when I decided to get involved in a project I provided all my energy in that direction. From previous experience I realized that I am a fulfilled person when I am in positions that offer autonomy of work and where I was able to develop my knowledge or develop in personal plan.

As part of the project, I made presentations to high school students about applied chemistry.

In everyday life and its importance, which I think has brought another perspective to both, students and me as a guide. The freedom offered by the project has helped me put on organizational skills to work so that activities can take place in good conditions.
